

Song of Sixpence

I had a sixpence, oh my jolly sixpence
I love my sixpence as much as I loved my life;
A penny I will spend, and another I will lend
And fourpence to carry home to my wife.

Chorus

*No cares have I to worry me
No clock on the wall to hurry me
I'm as happy as a lark believe me
As I go rolling home
Rolling home, rolling home, as I go rolling home
I'm as happy as a lark believe me
As I go rolling home*

I had a fourpence, oh my jolly fourpence
I loved my fourpence as much as I loved my life;
A penny I will spend, and another I will lend
And twopence to carry home to my wife. Ch.

I had a twopence, oh my jolly twopence,
I love that twopence as much as I loved my life;
A penny I will spend, and another I will lend
And nothing to carry home to my wife. Ch.

Now I have nothing, oh my jolly nothing
I love nothing so much as I love my life;
So nothing I can spend, and nothing I can lend
And I'll take nothing home to my wife. Ch.
